MARIE MANNING,

Author of "Lord Allingham, Bankrupt"

Copyright, 1905, by Harper & Brothers

But now entered a man who failed to take the hint of the spinning chair. In fact, he entered the eating house with the air of one who has dropped in casually to look for a friend and incidentally to eat his breakfast. He stopped in the doorway, scanned the table with deliberation and started to make his way toward Mary Carmichael with something of a swagger. Some one kicked a chair toward him at the head of the table. Some one else nearly upset him with one before he reached the middle.

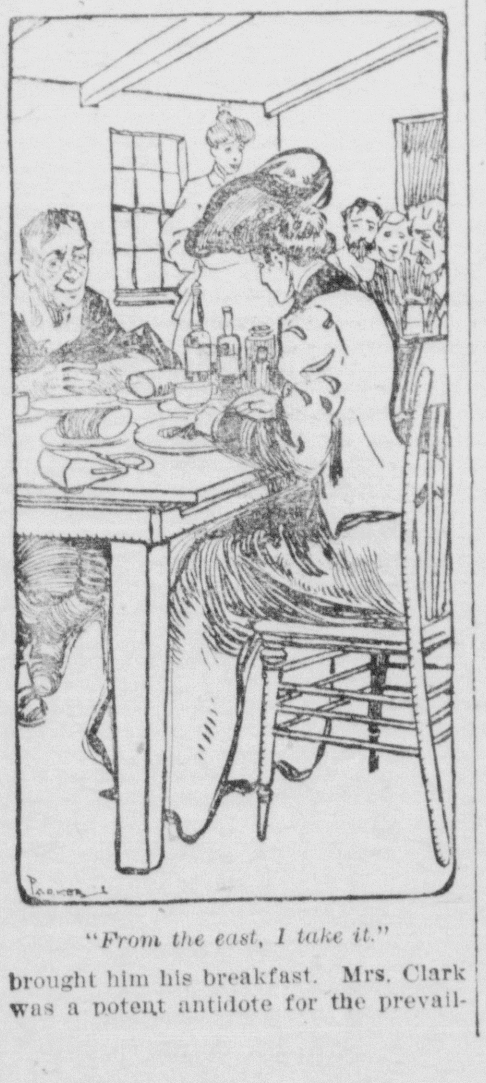
But the man made his way to the end of the table and drew out the chair opposite Miss Carmichael with a degree of assurance that precipitated the rest of the table into a pretty pother.

Suppose she should countenance his audacity? The fair have been known to succumb to the headlong force of a charge when the persistence of a long siege has failed signally. What figures they would cut if she did! And Simpson, of all men! A growing tension had crept into the atmosphere of the eating house. Knives and forks played but intermittently, and Mary, sitting at the end of the oilcloth covered table, felt intuitively that she was the center of the brewing storm.

"From the look of the yearling's chin I think he'll get all that's coming to him," whispered the man who had nearly upset him with the second chair.

The man Simpson was not a pleasant vis-a-vis. He wore the same picturesque ruffianliness of apparel as his fellows, but the resemblance stopped there. He lacked their dusky bloom, their clearness of eye, the suppleness and easy flow of muscle that is the hall mark of these frontiersmen. He was fat and squat and had not the rich bronzing of wind, sun and rain. His small black eyes twinkled from his puffy white face like raisins in a dough pudding.

He was ogling Mary amiably when the woman who kept the eating house brought him his breakfast. Mrs. Clark was a potent antidote for the prevailing spirit of romance even in this woman forsaken country. A good creature, all limp calico, Roman nose and sharp elbows, she brought him his breakfast with an ill grace that she had not shown to the others. The men about the table gave him scant greeting, but the absence of enthusiasm didn't embarrass Simpson.



"From the east, I take it."

He lounged expansively on the table, regarding Miss Carmichael attentively meanwhile, then favored her with the result of his observations, "From the east, I take it." And the dumpling face screwed into a smile whose mission was pacific.

Every knife and fork in the room suspended action in anxiety to know how the "yearling" would take it. Would their chivalry, which strained at a gnat, be compelled to swallow such a conspicuous camel as the success of Simpson?

But Miss Carmichael merely continued her breakfast, and if she heard the amiable deductions of Simpson regarding her she gave no sign. But a rebuff to him was in the nature of an appetizer, a fillip to press the acquaintance. He encroached a bit farther on the narrow limits of the table and continued, "Nice weather we're having."

Miss Carmichael gave her undivided attention to her coffee. The spurs and sombreros, that had not relaxed a muscle in their strained observation of the little drama, breathed reflectively.

"He shore is showing hisself to be a friendly native," commented the man who had sacrificed milk teeth investigating the indestructible doll.

"Seems to me that the system he's playing lacks a heap of science. My money's on the yearling." And the man who had "discarded the steak and drawn to the biscuits" leaned a little forward that he might better watch developments.

Simpson by this time fully realized his error, but failure before all these bantering youngsters was a contingency not to be accepted lightly. As he phrased it to himself, it was worth "another throw." "Seems kind o' lonesome not having any one to talk to while you're eatin', don't it?"

Miss Carmichael's air of perfect composure seemed a trifle out of tune with her surroundings. The nice elevation of eyebrow, the slightly questioning curl of the lip as she, for the first time apparently, became aware of the man opposite seemed to demand a prim drawing room rather than the atmosphere of the slouching eating house.

"Well, really, I've hardly had a chance of finding out." And her eyes were again on her coffee cup, and there was joy among the men at table that they had not rushed in after the manner of those who have a greater courage than the angels.

"No offense meant," deprecated Simpson, with an uneasy glance toward the other end of the table, where the men sat with necks craned forward in an attitude uncomfortably suggestive of hounds straining at the leash. Simpson felt rather than saw that something was afoot among the sombreros. There was a crowding together in whispered colloquy, and in a flash some half dozen of them were on their feet as a man. Descending upon Simpson, they lifted him, chair and all, to the other end of the table, as far removed as possible from Miss Carmichael.

The man who thought Simpson's system lacked science rubbed his hands in delight. "She took the trick all right; swept his hand clean off the board!"

CHAPTER II.

SIMPSON, from the seat to which he had been so rapidly transplanted, looked about him with blinking anxiety. It was more than probable that the boys intended "to have fun with him," though his talking, or, rather, trying to talk, to a girl that sat opposite him at an eating house table was, according to his ethics, plainly none of their business. He knew he wasn't popular since he had done for Jim Rodney's sheep, though the crime had never been laid at his door officially. He had his way to make, the same as the next one, and, all said and done, the cattlemen were glad to get Jim Rodney's sheep off the range, even if they treated him as a felon for the part he had played in their extermination.

Thus reasoned Simpson, while he marked with an uneasy eye that the temper of the company had grown decidedly prankish with the exit of the girl, who, after having caused all the trouble, had, with an irritating quality peculiar to her sex, vanished through the kitchen door.

Some three or four of the boys now ran to Simpson's former seat at the table and rushed toward him with his half eaten breakfast, as if the errand had been one of life and death. They showered him with mock attentions, waiting on him with an exaggerated deference, and the pale, fat man, remembering the hideousness of some of their manifestations of humor, breathed hard and felt a falling off of appetite.

Costigan, the cattleman, a strapping Irish giant, was clearing his throat with ominous sounds that suggested the tuning up of a bass fiddle.

"Sure, Simpson, me lad, if ye happen to have a matther av $50, 'tis mesilf that can tell ye av an illegint invistmint."

Simpson looked up warily, but Costigan's broad countenance did not harbor the wraith of a smile. "What kin I git for fifty chips? 'Tain't much," mused the pariah, with the prompt inclination to spend that stamps the comparative stranger to ready money.

"Ye can git a parrut, man—a grane parrut—to kape ye coompany while ye're aitin' "—

Simpson interrupted with an oath.

"Don't be hard on old Simmy. Remember he's studied for the ministry! How did I savey that Simpson aimed to be a sharp on doctrine?" A cow puncher with a squint addressed the table in general. "I scents the aroma of dogma about Simpson in the way he throwed his conversational lariat at the yearling. He urbanes at her, and then comes his 'firstly,' it being a speculation as to her late grazing ground, which he concludes to be the east. His 'secondly' ain't nothing startling, words familiar to us all from our mother's knee—'nice weather'—the congregation ain't visibly moved. His 'thirdly' is insinuating. In it he hints that it ain't good for man to be alone at meals"—

"'Twas the congregation that added the 'foinelly,' though, before hastily leaving by the back door!" And Costigan slapped his thigh.

"The gentleman in question don't seem to be makin' much use of his present conversational opportunities. I'm feelin' kinder turned down myself." And the Texan began to look over his six shooter.

The man with the squint looked up and down the board.

"Gentlemen, I believe the foregoing expresses the sentiment of this company, which, while it incloodes many foreign and frequent warring elements, is at present held together by the natchral tie of eating."

Thumping with knife and fork handles, stamping of feet, cries of "Hear, hear!" with at least three cowboy yells, argued well for a resumption of last night's festivities. Simpson glowered, but said nothing.

"Seems to me you all goin' the wrong way 'bout drawin' Mistu' Simpson out. He is shy an' has to be played fo' like a trout, an' heah you all come at him like a cattle stampede." The big Texan leaned toward Simpson. "Now, you all watch my methods. Mistu' Simpson, seh, what do you think of the prospects of rain?"

There was a general recommendation from Simpson that the entire company go to a locality below the rain belt.

A boy, plainly "from the east" and looking as if the ink on his graduating thesis had scarce had time to dry, was on his feet swaggering. He would not have swapped his newly acquired camaraderie with these bronzed westerners for the presidency.

"Gentlemen, you have all heard Simpson say it is lonesome having no one to talk to during meals. We sympathized with him and offered him a choice of subjects. He greets our remarks by a conspicuous silence, varied by profanity. This, gentlemen, reflects on us and is a matter demanding public satisfaction. All who feel that their powers as conversationalists have been impugned by the silence of Simpson please say 'Aye.' "

"Aye!" was howled, sung and roared in every note of the gamut.

"If me yoong fri'nd here an me roight"—and Costigan jerked a shoulder toward the boy—"will be afther closin' that silf feeding automatic dictionary av his for a moment, I shud be glad to call the attintion av the coomp'ny to somethin' in the nature av an ixtinuatin' circoomsthance in the case av Simpson."

"Hear, hear!" they shouted. The broad countenance of Costigan beamed with joy at what he was about to say. "Gintlemin, the silence av Mr. Simpson is jew in all probabilitee to a certain ivint recalled by many here prisint, an' more that's absent, an' amicablee settled out av coort."

Life Insurance Funds Disbursed Without Explicit Accounting.

MORE EVIDENCE TAKEN

Executive Officers of Greatest Financial Institution in the World Are Put on the Rack.

Mr. McCurdy Gives a Somewhat Novel View of the Position of Policy Holders.

New York, Oct. 11.—The sessions of the insurance investigating committee were terminated for the week at the adjournment yesterday, because of the death of S. Fred Nixon, speaker of the assembly of the legislature of New York, at his home in Westfield.

The testimony did not elicit any information of a sensational nature beyond what had been discounted in the testimony of previous witnesses. The feature was the presence as witnesses of the executive officers of the Mutual Life Insurance company. These were President Richard A. McCurdy and Vice Presidents Grannis and Gillette.

While it had been hinted last week that some expenditures charged to legal expenses might have been contributions to campaign committees, it was announced definitely by Dr. Gillette that the Mutual Life Insurance company contributed $40,000 to the Republican national committee last fall, that in 1900 $35,000 was contributed and in 1896 $15,000 was given for campaign purposes.

Dr. Gillette testified that he paid these amounts personally in cash, and later in the day Mr. McCurdy said that while he knew campaign contributions had been made, he did not know the amounts. He said that no contributions had been made to campaign committees before 1896, and that no contributions to state or municipal campaigns had ever been made in this or any other state. The contribution of $2,500 to the congressional campaign Mr. McCurdy said he knew nothing about until it came out in the testimony last week.

An interesting statement was made by Robert Oliphant when he was on the stand early in the day. Mr. Oliphant is chairman of expenditures, and he could not tell what the $25,000 items drawn to his order were for beyond that they were for legal expenses. He said the company maintained a confidential fund for expenditures for which no voucher was taken and no receipt was received. These payments were made upon the assurance of an executive officer that they were all right.

Vice President Grannis knew little about the contributions to campaign funds, but justified on the same ground as President John A. McCall of the New York Life that the free silver plank in the Democratic plank was a menace to the interests of the policy holders.

When Mr. Crimmins was called he assumed the entire responsibility for the terms of the contracts with C. H. Raymond & Co., by which that firm made such large profits. When the method of the expenditure of the $25,000 items was inquired into Mr. Grannis admitted that the general solicitor could get $25,000 any time he wanted it without disclosing for what purpose he wanted it and without rendering any account of it. He further said he never knew where a cent of the money spent by the general solicitor went. In taking up a detailed list of the company's expenses Dr. Gillette said that the company last year paid $72,000 for luncheons for the employes. It is a custom for the company to furnish their clerks with luncheon. This is at the rate of about $50 a day.

President McCurdy was on the stand all of the afternoon session. He detailed the manner of his entrance into the insurance business. He practiced law for nine years and was counsel for the Widows' and Orphans' Benefit Life Insurance company, of which C. H. Raymond was the president. When the company went out of business Mr. McCurdy went with the Mutual Life. Mr. McCurdy testified that he never knew what Mr. Thebaud, his son-in-law, was getting out of the business of C. H. Raymond & Co., and said he did not think it was any of his business to ask about Mr. Thebaud's personal affairs. He said the company did the business to get the commissions, and that was all he knew. All contracts were made without his knowledge. Witness said on the matter of salaries that he never requested that his salary be raised, and all such increases he took as complimentary to his management of the business. They were always made by the committee on salaries of their own volition.

Toward the close of the session Mr. McCurdy made the startling statement that an insurance company was not an institution founded to make money for the policy holders, but was, or should be, a great philanthropic enterprise founded to increase and spread its benefits over the entire earth.

"There has been a great mistake made," he said, "about the real province of life insurance companies in these latter years. People have been led to believe that the main purpose was to make money for its policy holders. In my view that is not the purpose of such companies. They are eleemosynary. When a man insures in a company he should take into consideration the fact that he has entered a great philanthropic concern that is in duty bound to spread itself, even though this growth prevents him from realizing as much as he expected."

AMERICAN IMMORTALS

Further Selections for the Hall of Fame Have Been Made.

New York, Oct. 11.—Three women and five men were chosen yesterday to receive tablets in the Hall of Fame at New York University, when the canvass of the votes in the second quinquennial election was completed. Maria Mitchell was the only American scientist to be elected at this time, though Louis Agassiz, with eighty-two votes, secured admission as a foreign-born American. A curious commentary on Maria Mitchell's election is the fact that eight of the electors, chiefly scientists, refused to vote for any woman, thus reducing the number of votes necessary to elect a woman to forty-seven, while fifty-one were required for a man.

Mary Lyan, founder of Mount Holyoke college, and Emma Willard, the author of "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," and a famous educator, were the other women honored.

Alexander Hamilton, with eighty-seven votes, the highest number received by any candidate at this election, and John Paul Jones with fifty-three, share with Agassiz the honor of being the first American immortals of foreign birth. Two American statesmen were chosen—John Quincy Adams, whose tablet will occupy a niche next to that of his father, John Adams, he having received fifty-eight votes, and James Madison, who secured admission with fifty-six votes.

Patrick Henry, John C. Calhoun and Andrew Jackson fell a half dozen votes short of securing the bronze tablets to record their fame, and Samuel Adams was again defeated. James Monroe's votes numbered only twenty-three. Seward, Sumner, DeWitt Clinton, Garfield, John Jay and Stanton were among the statesmen who failed to be elected.

TALKING THINGS OVER

Judge Calhoun Tells President About Venezuela.

Washington, Oct. 11.—President Roosevelt has discussed the Venezuelan question in detail with Judge W. J. Calhoun, the special commissioner who has just returned from Venezuela, where he went to ascertain the precise status of the claims of European governments against that country and their relation to American interests in Venezuela. Judge Calhoun talked with Secretary Root and later was a guest of the president. The president will discuss the Venezuelan question in his forthcoming message to congress. No determination has been reached yet by this government as to what, if any, action may be taken toward Venezuela, but the action of the government will be predicated upon the report of Judge Calhoun.

Coroner Exonerated Him.

Carmi, Ill., Oct. 11.—George D. Endicott, living near Crossville, Ill., killed John Brewer in a fight in which Endicott was attempting to rescue Mrs. Brewer from the attacks of her husband. Endicott, who is a step-father of Brewer's wife, heard her cries and went to her assistance. Brewer pulled a knife, when Endicott secured a poker and beat him to death. The coroner later exonerated Endicott.

Held to Grand Jury.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—Charged with having caused the death of ten-year-old Irene Klokow by administering narcotic poison, Dr. Oliver B. Hart was held to the grand jury without bail by a coroner's jury at the conclusion of the inquest on the body of the girl. Dr. Hart, it is charged, first attacked the girl and then poisoned her to hide his crime.

A CLEAN DEFEAT

Ramsey Will Not Even Be Permitted to Be a Wabash Director.

GOULD SWEEPS THINGS

When Proxies Were Sifted Out It Was Found That George Had Everything His Own Way.

Ramsey Did Not Show Sufficient Strength to Enable Him to Hold His Seat.

Toledo, Ohio, Oct. 11.—No directors were chosen at the annual meeting of the Wabash railroad yesterday. The sessions with the exception of two brief recesses, lasted from 9 o'clock in the morning until 11:15 at night, almost the entire time being taken up by the examination of proxies. Although no figures had been given out by the inspectors of election, it is believed that the vote to be taken today will show that Mr. Gould has behind him about $22,000,000 of the bonds, and that Mr. Ramsey has in the neighborhood of $2,000,000. This makes certain that the six men nominated by the Gould faction as directors representing the bondholders will be elected. These men are Russell Sage, Winslow S. Pierce, R. C. Clowry, E. T. Welles, W. B. Saunders and R. M. Galloway. Mr. Ramsey has not shown sufficient strength to enable him to hold his seat as a director, and it is generally believed that he is weaker in stock proxies than he is in the bonds.

A SQUELCHER FOR WOMEN

Ecclesiastics Hold That Angels Are of the Male Sex.

New York, Oct. 11.—Gutson Burglum, sculptor of the Angel of the Annunciation and of the Angel of the Resurrection, which were intended to have adorned the walls of the great cathedral of St. John the Divine at Morningside Heights, announces that he has destroyed the figures. Mr. Borglum did so because of a dispute which had arisen as to whether the figures should be masculine or feminine. The sculptor had created his conceptions of the two angels in the form of women and his work had been sharply criticised on that score.

Mr. Borglum said that he had received a final opinion of one of the church authorities that the figures must be masculine, and he added: "Then I went to the cathedral and with a chisel and mallet smashed the figures into bits. Although I have done nothing in the last year into which I have put more care and thought, and though I felt like the veriest vandal in thus wrecking what I knew to be works of beauty and power, I did so to put a stop to a useless discussion and prevent any use being made of the figures other than had been originally intended.

"I am absolutely astounded that any clergyman could stand in the presence of thirty or forty images of a purely religious and spiritual character and see nothing in them but sex, and now that the whole unpleasant matter is over I am just as sure as ever that the feminine side of our race must ever continue to be our chief source of artistic inspiration and will so remain absolutely unaltered by all pedantic controversies."

Dr. Wyman Honored.

Washington, Oct. 11.—At the present session of the second general international sanitary convention of American republics, Dr. Walter Wyman, surgeon general of the public health and marine hospital service, was elected president of the convention and Dr. Eduardo Liceaga was elected president of the next meeting, which will take place in Mexico City in December, 1907.

KEEPING OUT OF IT

Indiana Statesmen Refuse to Mix Up in Philadelphia Situation.

Indianapolis, Oct. 11.—The refusal of Senator Foraker of Ohio and members of President Roosevelt's cabinet to take part in the local campaign at Philadelphia, where there is a reform ticket in the field against the regular Republican nominees, has called attention to the fact that Indiana men who are regarded as national figures have also refused to take part there. It is said that Vice President Fairbanks turned down a very urgent appeal for a speech, and it is understood that invitations were received and declined by Senator Beveridge. Vice President Fairbanks helped to open the Republican campaign in Ohio, but Governor Hanly did not care to make any speeches in that state. The Anti-Saloon League is making a bitter fight against Governor Herrick, the Republican nominee, and it is supposed that Governor Hanly did not care to make speeches lest he be accused of being inconsistent in his reform policy.

The Hon. Thomas Taggart "dropped in" yesterday and will be here till the latter part of the week. He is still spending nearly all his time at French Lick, but he has not lost interest in local politics. He says he intends to be here much of the time till election day, as he wants to contribute his mite toward Mayor Holtzman's campaign. Time was when the local Democrats hardly thought of doing anything without consulting him or waiting till he arrived and gave the word, but he has dropped out of the active game here since his retirement as mayor and removal to French Lick. He expressed the opinion, however, that Holtzman will be elected by a larger majority than two years ago.

The body of the late Hosea Hawkins was taken to Sullivan county this morning for burial. The funeral will be held near the place of his birth. Hawkins died suddenly in a traction car at Anderson Monday afternoon, and it was thought at first that he was a victim of heart disease, but the coroner's investigation shows that a headache powder was the real cause of his death. The powders contained a large percent of acetanilid and Hawkins's heart could not stand its depressing influence. He told one of his friends a few minutes before his death that he never felt better in his life. Many prominent politicians and business men called at his residence last night and viewed the body.

State Statistician Stubbs has completed an interesting report relative to churches and church members in Indiana. There are now 725,409 church members in the state. The other 1,775,000 people making up the Hoosier population do not belong to any religious organization. There are 6,068 churches valued at $21,124,528. The total cost of maintaining the church institutions is $3,020,416 annually, or about $4.16 for each member. The Methodists have the largest membership, 174,862; the Catholics being second with 145,269.

OLD SORES SAP THE VITALITY AND UNDERMINE THE HEALTH

Old Sores that refuse to heal are a constant menace to health. They sap the vitality and undermine the constitution by draining the system of its very life fluids, and those afflicted with one of these ulcers grow despondent and almost desperate as one treatment after another fails. They patiently apply salves, washes, plasters, etc., but in spite of all these the sore refuses to heal and eats deeper into the surrounding flesh, destroying the tissues and growing to be a festering, inflamed and angry mass. The source of the trouble is in the blood. This vital fluid is filled with impurities and poisons which are constantly being discharged into the sore or ulcer, making it impossible for the place to heal. It will not do to depend on external applications for a cure, because they do not reach the real cause, and valuable time is lost experimenting with such treatment; the most they can do is keep the ulcer clean. Any sore that will not heal is dangerous, for the reason that it may have the deadly germs of Cancer behind it. A cure can be brought about only through a remedy that can change the quality of the blood, and this is what S. S. S. does. It goes to the very bottom of the trouble, drives out the poisons and germs with which it is filled, and purifies and builds up the entire circulation. By the use of S. S. S. the sore is supplied with new, rich blood which corrects the trouble, soon stops the discharge, and allows the place to heal naturally and permanently. S. S. S. also reinvigorates the entire system, and where the constitution has been depleted or broken down it quickly builds it up and restores perfect health. Write for our special book on sores and ulcers, and any medical advice you are in need of; no charge for either.

How to cure it should be of untold value to Seymour mothers Read this.

Mrs. M. Mortz, of Fifth street, says: "I sent my daughter to C. W. Milhous drug store to get Doan's Kidney Pills for her little sister afflicted with weak kidneys. I gave them to her and I never had a more satisfactory result from medicine. It was such a release from embarrassment to the child and took a large amount of extra work off me. This had been going on for a long while and nothing I could do for her seemed to do any good. As to the price 50 cents per box to me ten dollars a box would have been cheap judging from merits. The child is perfectly sound as regards the kidneys. It is four months since I gave them. I can conscientiously recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to mothers."

GRAVE DISEASES, DUE TO STANDING

Facts About Miss Merkley's Dangerous Illness and Complete Cure

Have you ever thought why so many women or girls rather walk an hour than stand still for ten minutes?

Miss Margret Merkley

It is because most women suffer from some derangement of their delicate organism, the discomfort of which is less trying when they are in motion than when standing.

In some states laws compel employers to provide resting places for their female employees.

But no amount of law can regulate the hard tasks of these women. They must get the strength which this work demands or run the risk of serious diseases and the surgeon's knife.

Read about the experience of Miss Margret Merkley, 275 3d Street, Milwaukee, Wis.:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"Gradual loss of strength, nervousness, bearing-down pains and extreme irritation compelled me to seek medical advice. The doctor said I had ovarian trouble and ulceration of the womb, and advised an operation if I wanted to get well. I objected to this and decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. I soon found that all the good things said about this great medicine were true. The ulceration soon healed, backache, headache and nervousness disappeared, and in a short time I was strong, vigorous and perfectly well. I wish every working girl who suffers would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a vegetable tonic which invigorates and strengthens the entire female organism, and will produce the same beneficial results in the case of any sick woman as with Miss Merkley.

DOUGHERTY IN JAIL.

Head of Peoria School Board Couldn't Secure Bond.

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 11.—Having abandoned the attempt to find bondsmen for his liberty, Newton C. Dougherty, the indicted embezzler of Peoria school funds, is lodged in the county jail, having given himself up to the custody of the sheriff. Dougherty is now held on ninety-seven charges of embezzlement, forgery and larceny as bailee, the grand jury this week having returned eighty-four indictments, in addition to the thirteen of last Thursday. Judge Worthington held the prisoner to bail in the sum of approximately $70,000 in addition to the $10,000 bond given by his sureties at the time of the first arrest last week.

Thefts from the school treasury represented by the indictments so far returned amount to more than $50,000. The specific amounts embezzled run all the way from $10 to $3,000. The investigation has covered only fifteen months of the last three years of Dougherty's administration of the school finances. The possibility that he may have embezzled several hundred thousand dollars in the last twenty-five years is founded on the theory that his operations were as extensive in either years as in this period.

Bold Escape From Prison.

Helsingfors, Finland, Oct. 11.—The supreme court, sitting at Abo, rejected the appeal of Hohenthal, the murderer of Soisalon Soinenen, against the sentence of imprisonment for life, and by midnight Hohenthal had effected a dramatic escape from prison. Hohenthal escaped by cutting the half-inch bars of his cell and dropping from a second-story window. A rope ladder was found by means of which he had climbed a twenty-foot wall, dropping from that into a well-lighted street. No further trace of the fugitive has been found.

The Secret of Good Coffee

Even the best housekeepers cannot make a good cup of coffee without good material. Dirty, adulterated and queerly blended coffee such as unscrupulous dealers shovel over their counters won't do. But take the pure, clean, natural flavored LION COFFEE, the leader of all package coffees—the coffee that for over a quarter of a century has been daily welcomed in millions of homes—and you will make a drink fit for a king in this way:

HOW TO MAKE GOOD COFFEE.

Use LION COFFEE, because to get best results you must use the best coffee.

Grind your LION COFFEE rather fine. Use "a tablespoonful to each cup, and one extra for the pot." First mix it with a little cold water, enough to make a thick paste, and add white of an egg (if egg is to be used as a settler), then follow one of the following rules:

1st. WITH BOILING WATER. Add boiling water, and let it boil THREE MINUTES ONLY. Add a little cold water and set aside five minutes to settle. Serve promptly.

2d. WITH COLD WATER. Add your cold water to the paste and bring it to a boil. Then set aside, add a little cold water, and in five minutes it's ready to serve.

3 DONT'S
- Don't boil it too long.
- Don't let it stand more than ten minutes before serving.
- Don't use water that has been boiled before.

TWO WAYS TO SETTLE COFFEE.

1st. With Eggs. Use part of the white of an egg, mixing it with the ground LION COFFEE before boiling.

2d. With Cold Water instead of eggs. After boiling add a dash of cold water, and set aside for eight or ten minutes, then serve through a strainer.

Insist on getting a package of genuine LION COFFEE, prepare it according to this recipe and you will only use LION COFFEE in future. (Sold only in 1 lb. sealed packages.)
(Lion-head on every package.)
(Save these Lion-heads for valuable premiums.)

Near Walesboro.

Engineer Joliff and assistants, who are in the employ of the Irwins are at work near Walesboro. The line they are surveying is on the east side of the Pennsylvania south from Columbus to a point just south of Walesboro where the plan is to cross to the west side by an overhead crossing. From there the survey will be on the west side of the steam road. While this is the plan in advance of the survey this idea may not be adhered to finally. To make the survey complete and furnish estimates of construction will require several weeks. The Columbus Times indirectly quotes Mr. Irwin as saying that during the coming year the road will be complete to Seymour and cars running.

Why this Stove Makes Warm Floors

The hottest part of the fire being always against the fire pot as illustrated above, the greater part of the heat is radiated downward, heating the floor much more than a baseburner does. Two or three tons of slack or soft coal will heat the ordinary house, giving as continuous and uniform heat as heretofore could only be obtained with a hard coal baseburner.

We also carry a full line of all kinds of heater prices lower than the lowest. We have a big stock and must sell them

SEEING AMERICA.

Wonderful Scenic Trip Across Rocky Mountains to Oregon Exposition.

In certain respects the excursions to the Lewis and Clark Centennial Exposition, Portland, Oregon, via Pennsylvania Lines, beginning May 23rd and continuing through the summer, offer advantages never before presented to Exposition visitors. The trip to the Oregon Exposition, in addition to the attractiveness of the extensive exhibits, includes the journey through the scenic wonderland of the Rocky Mountains and the Cascade Range, and what American has not looked forward from the days of the geography class in school to the time when those great sights should be seen in reality? The time was never so favorable as now. The trip may be made less expensive than ever. For only a light difference in fare tourists may extend their trip to San Francisco and Los Angeles. The return trip may be made over a different route, enabling travelers to view much more of the west. For full particulars, fares, dates of special excursions to Portland on account of conventions, through time and passenger service apply to ticket agent of Pennsylvania lines.

A New Paint.

If one-half that is claimed for the new German paint is true, says the Philadelphia Record, the white lead base of paints so universally used is doomed. The new pigment is obtained from a burnt limestone which contains a considerable proportion—20 per cent or more—of magnesia, the best combination being that found naturally in dolomitic limestone. This is mixed with a hydrocarbon and fired until all the carbon is consumed. Among the desirable features claimed for the new paint are fineness and smoothness of surface, covering power, permanence and cheapness, quick drying qualities without addition of driers, freedom from yellowing with age and a natural hardening or enameling after a few months. Greatest of all, it may be washed without destroying its original smoothness.

Submarine Bells.

Two submarine bells lately put in position off the coast of Nova Scotia are said to be working admirably. They can be heard at a distance of five miles, as tested by a steamship equipped with a receiving instrument on which the sound is heard. Submarine telephone signals will be established at several other points on the Nova Scotian coast in the bay of Fundy and on the Cape Breton seaboard. The Canadian department of marine has contracted for a large number of these aids to navigation, and it is expected that all steamships running to Canadian ports will soon be supplied with the receiving apparatus, which will enable approach to the coast with safety in all kinds of weather.

Locomotives as Fog Makers.

An engineer asserts that the London fogs are caused largely by the discharge of steam into the air from the 300 or more locomotives operating in the London area. Averaging each engine at 500 horsepower, or a total of, say, 150,000 horsepower, and adding 500,000 horsepower from other steam generating sources, gives a total of 650,000 horsepower of steam discharged into the atmosphere. One steam plant of 2,000 horsepower, the engineer figures, will discharge into the air twenty tons of steam per hour, or sufficient to produce a fog twenty feet thick and one mile square.

State Secures a Settlement of the W. S. Wickard Notes.

THREATS OF A LAW SUIT

Attorney General Miller Gives it Out Plainly That Further Delay Will Not Be Countenanced.

This Brings Out the Assurance of the Wickard Interests of a Settlement Today.

Indianapolis, Oct. 11.—Gradually the $145,000 shortage of David E. Sherrick, deposed auditor of state, is being wiped out. Arrangements were made yesterday afternoon for payment of the W. S. Wickard notes given to Sherrick as security for $51,000 borrowed of him by Wickard. The name of the J. H. Murry company, of which Wickard is secretary and treasurer, was signed to the notes, and Governor Hanly, at the time he removed Sherrick, labeled them as forgeries. Wickard was indicted jointly with Sherrick on the charge of embezzlement and conspiracy to commit a felony. He has been promising a settlement of the notes for several days, but Attorney General Miller announced yesterday that unless there was a settlement at once he would immediately bring suit to collect the amount. Murry and his attorney, Martin Hugg, after a conference with Attorney General Miller and John Reed, receiver for the Sherrick securities, promised the attorney general that the money will be paid some time today, which will reduce Sherrick's shortage to $62,000.

FIFTY GAS OR OIL WELLS

Chicago Company Is Getting Busy Again Near Greentown.

Greentown, Ind., Oct. 11.—Twenty teams are at work hauling derricks and tools for the drilling of fifty new gas or oil wells for the Chicago company on a line running northeast from the big pumping station of the Indiana Natural Gas and Oil company, one mile west of this place. This town will be repiped and gas supplied to consumers at 25 cents a thousand feet. This company shut off the gas here about a year ago. This territory will be all activity for the next few months and will give employment to 100 more laborers. The big pumping station here, which has been closed down for several months, will be started again. It is said that the wells will be drilled 100 feet into the sand, or to the second pay.

Boy's Insane Action.

Liberty, Ind., Oct. 11.—A seventeen-year-old lad named Vansickle set fire to his mother's home and it was destroyed. He is thought to be demented. He was arrested and held pending an examination as to his sanity.

But millionaires are not the only ones who are afflicted with bad stomachs. The proportion is far greater among the toilers. Dyspepsia and indigestion are rampant among these people, and they suffer far worse tortures than the millionaire unless they avail themselves of a standard medicine like Green's August Flower, which has been a favorite household remedy for all stomach troubles for over thirty-five years. August Flower rouses the torpid liver thus creating appetite and insuring perfect digestion. It tones and vitalizes the entire system and makes life worth living, no matter what your station. Adams Express Clerk Leaves Pittsburg With a $100,000 Package.

Pittsburg, Oct. 11.—The startling discovery was made last evening that the Adams Express company has been victimed to the extent of $100,000, supposedly through the peculations of an employe. The following official statement of the affair is given the press for publication:

"At 4:15 p. m., Monday, Oct. 9, a bank of Pittsburg delivered to the Adams Express company at their office at 610 Wood street, Pittsburg, a package of currency containing $100,000. The package containing this large sum of money was consigned to a bank in Cincinnati, Ohio.

"This package was received and receipted for by Edward George Cunliffe, who was then acting in the place of the regular money clerk, who was ill. Cunliffe left the office at the usual time Monday evening and Tuesday morning, when he failed to report for duty, a hurried examination was made of his department and it was learned that about $1,000 of funds entrusted to his care were missing. General Agent Hiner of the Adams Express company immediately called in detectives and placed the matter in their hands. Later developments brought to light the fact that in addition to the $1,000 missing, the bank package containing the $100,000 had not been received at the money forwarding office at Union station, this city. Inquiries made at his residence, 314 Lucerne street, West End, Pittsburg, showed that Cunliffe arrived home at the customary time Monday evening and, after changing his clothes, bade his family good-bye, saying to his wife that he was going out for the evening and nothing further has been heard from him.

NOT ABATED ONE JOT

President Maintains Firm Views Concerning Rate Legislation.

Washington, Oct. 11.—Railroad rate legislation was the principal subject of talks President Roosevelt had with several members of congress. He indicated to them that it would be the leading topic of his forthcoming message to congress, and that he had not abated one jot in his determination to induce congress, if possible, to enact legislation along the lines of his recommendations. Senator Cullom and Representative Rodenburg of Illinois had a long talk with the president, the discussion being devoted chiefly to rate legislation. Both of them informed the president that the people in their opinion were in hearty accord with him on the railroad rate question. The president also discussed the question with Representative James Kennedy of the old McKinley district of Ohio. Mr. Kennedy said there was no doubt that the people of his district of Ohio generally, so far as he had observed, demanded the legislation advocated by the president.
